Slate Floor Tiles And Slate Roofing Tiles Are Not As Popular As Marble Tiles or Granite Tiles But Are Available From International Stone Supplier Rococo-Setimar

Slate flooring tiles are often used for interior and exterior flooring, stairs, walkways, and wall cladding. Slate roofing tiles are used on homes and commercial construction, but are more popular in Europe than in America.

Slate tiles are not as common as marble and other natural stone tiles, but one international stone supplier, Rococo-Setimar Stone Group, <http://www.granitemarblestonegroup.com>, headquartered in Florida, USA, can provide slate tiles for both roofing and flooring. Slate is a natural performance material making it ideal for flooring, roofing and other applications. Whatever the project at hand, Rococo-Setimar can customize to your specifications regardless of its applications. Rococo-Setimar stone technology and equipment manufactures top quality slate tiles and engineering materials suitable for the most discriminating residential or commercial applications. The roofing tiles are hand selected, piece by piece, giving you the quality that is expected.

Slate Tiles and Slate Architectural stone have a very distinctive beauty and natural durability. Slate has been acclaimed for generations as the ultimate roofing material, but also excels as cladding and natural stone floors. It is a natural stone that has the remarkable ability to be manufactured into thin tiles of uniform thickness. A slate roof simply has no equal in durability, and its natural beauty enhances the aesthetic design of nearly any building with its rich natural color and texture. The many benefits of slate tiles include longevity, beautiful appearance and energy conservation. Rococo-Setimar is the premier international supplier of slate tiles and slate engineering stone, and ships worldwide to large residential and commercial projects. Rococo-Setimar invites architects, contractors, project managers for any and all slate tile and architectural projects to visit their web site and call for any natural stone need.
